

Teen Impact: February 20 – 22, 2026

Dear Adventist Teen,

The Michigan Conference Youth & Education Department is excited to invite you to Teen Impact 2026. The purpose of this weekend is to inspire you to grow closer to Jesus and to train you how to impact the lives of others around you for Christ. You will be joined by like-minded teens from across the state of Michigan during this exciting weekend! Beautiful Camp Au Sable will be your home away from home during this 3-day retreat.

Our speaker this year is Girlie Aguilar , and our theme is Reset. It will be a powerful weekend designed to help young people pause, reflect, and realign their lives with God. Through worship, conversations, and moments of honesty, students will be invited to let go of distractions and start fresh in their walk with Him. Please read through the information in this packet, complete the registration page, and return it to your school sponsor in a timely manner. Also, please make sure that you return your signed Camp Au Sable Trail Ride Waiver and Activity Waiver Form and your camp fee to your principal.

See you soon!

- To cooperate with my chaperones, breakout leaders and all camp leaders and staff willingly and graciously.
- To refrain from bringing electronic devices such as MP3 players, iPods, computers, video games etc., that tend to detract from the goals of the retreat, and to have my cell phone turned off during all meetings.

Dear Chaperones and Faculty Sponsors,

Thank you so very much for investing your time and efforts on behalf of the young people in your church and school. You are a very valuable part of the Teen Impact team. Your contribution to the success of this ministry is greatly appreciated.

Your assistance in the following areas is crucial to the success of this spiritual retreat:

- Providing ongoing and consistent supervision to the students in your care.
- Not taking students off campus for activities that are not part of the Teen Impact experience.
- Providing appropriate supervision for your group during meals. Groups sit together during meals.
- Monitoring where your students are during free times. Students need to inform you about where they plan to be; they need to engage in free time activities in groups of three or more.
- Making sure that your students are where they need to be at all times.
- Reporting illnesses to the camp leadership - Pastor Chad, Mr. Kittleson, or Pastor Ken.
- Providing guidance and supervision in the cabin assigned to you and your group.
- Making sure that students in your care are in the cabin and remain quiet after lights out time at night.
- Monitoring students and taking attendance of your group during breakouts and general meetings.
- Helping students be punctual for all meetings, and maintain a reverential attitude during meetings.
- Leading out in short devotionals and prayer in the morning and reflection and prayer band times in your cabins just before bed time.
- Encouraging students to participate in all scheduled activities.
- Helping your group complete their assigned duties well and in a timely and efficient manner.
- Helping your group get your cabin and the immediate area around it clean on Sunday morning.
- Reminding students to leave all electronic devices behind (at home or school) even before they begin their journey to camp.
- Helping to enforce the guideline of not using cell phones during breakouts and meetings and keeping them turned off during those times.
- Time will be provided for students to walk around the lake during the day; please do not plan on walks around the lake or engaging in other recreational activity after the evening meetings.
The moments before retiring for the night could be used as powerful spiritual anchor time.

Please give careful consideration to the types of activities students will be engaged in during the trip up to camp. Will these activities (games they play, music they listen to, conversation they engage in) prepare them for the spiritual focus we hope they will experience at Teen Impact? The lesson from the parable of the sower (Matthew 13: 3-9) leads us to seriously consider the importance of preparing the soil in anticipation of the sowing of the seed.

The weekend begins with registration at 5:00 P.M. on Friday, February 20. Supper will be at 6:00 P.M.
