

The image shows the interior of a church, looking up at a large, ornate stained glass window. The window is composed of several tall, narrow panes with intricate geometric and floral designs in blue, red, and gold. Above the central panes is a circular medallion featuring an open book. The church pews are visible in the foreground, and the walls are a warm, light brown color. Two small, glowing candles are mounted on the wall on either side of the central window.
