SPECIAL FEATURE

Alex Jiao

After these things I looked, and behold, a great multitude which no one could number, of all nations, tribes, peoples, and tongues, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, with palm branches in their hands, and crying out with a loud voice saying, "Salvation belongs to our God who sits on the throne, and to the Lamb!"

An aerial photograph of the New York City skyline on September 11, 2001. The Twin Towers of the World Trade Center are the central focus, standing tall against a large, semi-circular orange and yellow sun. The surrounding city is densely packed with skyscrapers, and the Hudson River is visible to the left with the Manhattan Bridge in the distance. The overall tone is somber and commemorative.

Heritage ✦ and Fellowship

Today, we gather with open hearts to reflect on faith as a quiet foundation for daily life, a source of direction, and a reminder that every step can be taken with God in mind.

THE SABBATH

Rooted faith may not always appear loud or visible. It can be present in patience, prayer, humility, and the willingness to keep walking when the next step is still unfolding.

The background image shows the ruins of the Temple of Apollo in Side, Turkey. The temple is a large, multi-story structure with many columns, some of which are still standing. The ruins are made of light-colored stone. In the foreground, there are other ruins, including a wall with arches and a stone wall. The sky is a mix of orange, yellow, and blue, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. The text is overlaid on the right side of the image.

In Ephesians chapter 2, the apostle Paul writes to a congregation that was struggling with cultural division.
