Picture of the Week

This week, grades three through six visited Mount Vernon, the home of George Washington for a field trip. Getting to explore historical sights can be fun and educational for students. These experiences allow them to see what they have learned in class in a more personal way.

Yesterday, our second graders had a special opportunity to connect a book to real life! We read Plátanos Go with Everything, a wonderful story about a Dominican family and the important role food and culture play in family life. We took our learning one step further by tasting fried sweet plantains (maduros)! The students were excited to try something new and experience a delicious part of Dominican culture.
